THE WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE ON AGING

The Executive Director of Valley Area Agency on Aging, Ms. Kathryn C. Boles, is pleased to announce that she has been invited to attend the White House Conference on Aging in Cleveland, Ohio on April 27, 2015.

The White House Conference on Aging takes place every decade and addresses ideas for improvement in the lives of senior citizens. Some of the topics of focus include retirement security, healthy aging, long-term services and supports, and elder justice. These conferences shape the future for seniors across the entire country.

This year's White House Conference will be conducted through a series of regional forums, the closest one to Michigan being the Cleveland, Ohio conference. Comments, suggestions, and stories can be shared on the official White House Conference on Aging's website at www.whitehouseconferenceonaging.gov. Live streaming of the forums will also be available on their website.

Kathryn Boles, Executive Director of VAAA says, "I am honored to represent senior citizens at the White House Conference on Aging. This conference helps to shape laws and services to come. I strongly recommend following the conference on the official website and leaving feedback and suggestions."
